

Sanitized - Approved For Release : CIA

DENVER, COLO.
POSTE. 255,318
S. 352,396

CPYRIGHT MAR 12 1975

H. LYNN OSTLER
Denver CIA chief.

2 Killed In Traffic Accidents

The Denver area representative for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and an Air Force major were killed in separate accidents on Colorado highways Thursday.

They were identified as H. Lynn Ostler, 61, of 1300 Monroe St., a retired Army brigadier general and area representative for the CIA since 1951, and Maj. Fred A. Brockway, 48, an English professor at the Air Force Academy.

Their deaths brought to 65 the 1965 state traffic toll. A year ago 68 had been killed.

Car in Collision

Brig Gen. H. Lynn Ostler (Ret.), 61, was killed when his car collided with a semitrailer truck at Dowd, just west of the junction of U.S. 6 and 24 in Eagle County on the Western Slope.

State Patrolman F. L. Prendergast said Ostler died of a skull fracture and broken neck at the scene of the 7:20 a.m. crash, but information on the accident was withheld until mid-afternoon so relatives and authorities could be notified.

Prendergast identified the driver of the truck as Jimmy D. Reeves, 30, of 1399 Vine St.

Reeves was not hurt, and his co-driver, Franklin D. Pittsinger, 30, of 3385 Ward Road, Jefferson County, asleep in the rig's sleeper compartment, received only cuts and bruises.

Prendergast said Ostler's westbound car collided with the eastbound W. J. Digby, Inc., rig, carrying a load of oranges, on an icy stretch of highway. He said the car was knocked backward 75 feet.

Ostler was en route to Grand Junction, Colo., on business, his office said.

A native of Salt Lake City, Ostler began his Army career with the 324th Cavalry Regiment in 1932. He was adjutant general of the 5th Army in Europe during World War II and later served as staff adviser to the commanding general of the 6th Army in San Francisco, Calif.

From 1950 to 1960, Ostler was division commander of the 96th Infantry Division, a reserve unit, in Salt Lake City. As area representative of the CIA, he had been stationed in both Salt Lake City and Denver.

CPYRIGHT

CPYRIGHT